OPPOSE HB1250 – An Act Relative to Damages for the Malicious Injury to Pets (Rep. Arciero)

Referred to Joint Committee on Judiciary

PROBLEM:

This bill equates loss of animals with loss of people by calling for damages for emotional distress or loss of companionship in cases of injury or death of an animal. Animals are often kept as cherished pets but they are property and should not be given legal status equal to humans.

HISTORY:

Animal welfare proponents are in favor of judicious breeding, proper veterinary care, appropriate grooming and training of animals owned as personal property. Animal right proponents, are often seen aligning themselves on the public front with Animal Welfare/Animal Protection groups, yet they have an entirely different long term objective of giving animals rights equivalent to those of humans and as such should not be owned, bred, eaten or handled in any way by humans.

WHAT THIS BILL DOES:

1. Raises the legal status of dogs, cats, birds, horses, rabbits, guinea pigs or other animals to the same status humans have in case of loss or injury.
2. Amends Chapter 140, Section 174, Recovery of Penalties, to allow lawsuits in district courts for emotional distress and loss of companionship when an animal is injured or killed.

WHY YOU SHOULD OPPOSE:

1. Animals should not be placed on the same legal plane as humans.
2. Animals are the property of their owners.
3. Current law is adequate in case of injury to an animal (Chapter 272 Section 85A).
4. It opens the door for lawsuits against veterinarians and therefore would drastically raise the price of veterinary care by creating a need for malpractice insurance at a level similar to that for human doctors.
5. It opens the door for lawsuits in cases where an animal is accidentally run over by a car or injured in some other accident, putting pet care professionals and the general public at risk of frivolous but expensive lawsuits.
